

publications and his research interest are mostly mathematical modeling, Robust optimization, maintainance, supply chain and inventory management.

Armin JabbarZadeh is an Assisstat Professor and Master of Science in Industrial Engineering in the Industrial engineering Department at the Iran University of science and technology, Tehran, Iran. He earned B.S. in Industrial Engineering from Iran University of science and technology ,and Masters in Industrail Engineering from the same University in Tehran, Iran. He had also earned his PhD in Industrial Engineering from the Iran University of science and technology. He has published journal and conference papers.. His research interests include supply chain optimization, simulation, production planning, reliability, scheduling, manufacturing, and health care system optimization.