

Engines, and Automotive Engineering. In addition, he also contributed to other short-courses such as Centralized Distributed Cooling System and Thermal Power Plant Efficiency & Heat Rate Improvement. He is an active reviewer to several international journals while having published more than 30 journal articles. His research interest includes combustion analysis, energy optimization, marine engineering, power plant engineering and internal combustion engines.