

Biography

Ryota niizeki joined Hitachi, Ltd. in 2012, and now works at the Service Design Research Department, U Research & Development Group. He is currently engaged in human-centered design practices, including ethnographic research, interview-based research, and usability evaluations. He is a member of Human Interface Society.

Toshihiro Suzuki joined Hitachi, Ltd. in 1983, and now works at the Photovoltaic Power System Department, Power System Company. He is currently engaged in planning of photovoltaic power system project and construction management system.

Yasuaki Yokosuka joined Hitachi, Ltd. in 1994, and now works at the Project Management Supporting Department, Power System Company. He is currently engaged in power plant project management and construction management.

Kazuto Tatehara joined Hitachi, Ltd. in 1993, and now works Project Management Department, EPC Project management Division, Hitachi Document Solutions Co., Ltd. He is currently engaged in the development and management of plant construction managerial systems.

Hisako Okada joined Hitachi, Ltd. in 1998, and now works at the Project Management Department, EPC Project management Division, Hitachi Document Solutions Co., Ltd. She is currently engaged in the development and management of plant construction managerial systems.

Eizaburo Takegami joined Hitachi, Ltd. in 2003, and now works at the Service Design Research Department, U Research & Development Group. He is currently engaged in human-centered design practices, including ethnographic research, interview-based research, and usability evaluations. He is a member of Japan Ergonomics Society, Human Interface Society, and Japan Society for Educational Technology.