

- [14] Cuñado, Juncal de Gracia, Fernando Pérez Does Education Affect Happiness? Evidence for Spain // Social Indicators Research 2012 v. 108. No 1. PP. 185-196
- [15] Michalos, Alex C. Education, happiness and wellbeing // Social Indicators Research 2008 v. 87. No 3. PP. 347-366

BIOGRAPHY

Elena A. Frolova is a associate professor of Economics Department and Leader Research Scientist at Lifelong Wellbeing Lab in Institute of Humanities, Social Sciences & Technologies National Research Tomsk Polytechnic University. Dr. Elena Frolova completed PhD in Economics Science at Tomsk State University. She deliver taught courses in economics, national economy, social policy, public economics for BS students in Engineering and Humanities and has over 15 years of experience in teaching. Research interests of Dr. Elena Frolova combine the areas of quality of life, social policy, institutional economics and age.

Galina A. Barysheva is professor of the Economic Department, the Institute of Social and Humanitarian Technologies. Barysheva G.A. is the organizer and member of scientific conferences, symposiums of all levels, economic schools; scientific supervisor of the researches performed under state budget and contractual agreements. She regularly participates in affaires of the Dissertation Councils on economic specialties as the official opponent and the reviewer.

Ekaterina A. Taran is currently a fulltime senior teacher of Department of Economics at Institute of Humanities, Social Sciences and Technologies in the Tomsk Polytechnic University. She also holds the position of researcher of the International Scientific-educational Laboratory Technologies to Improve the Well-being of Older People (Lifelong Wellbeing Lab). Her research interests include studing of social factors of economic agents behavior, investigation of influence of the existing structure of property redistribution on the socio-economic well-being.

Fabio Casati is professor of Social informatics and senator at the University of Trento. Until 2006, he was technical lead for the research program on business process intelligence in Hewlett-Packard USA, where he contributed to several HP commercial products in the area of web services and business process management. He then moved to academia, where he started a research line on technologies for happiness and life participation (lifeparticipation.org), focusing on achieving direct positive impact on society and specifically on older adults. He is co-author of a best-selling book on Web services and author of over 200 peer-reviewed papers. Contact him at fabio.casati@unitn.it Giacomo Arrighini is currently a doctoral student of the Department of Sociology at the Oxford University and he graduated from the University of Trento. His research interests include studing of s sociology factors of agents behavior.