Mahdi Hamid is PhD candidate in the field of industrial engineering in School of Industrial Engineering, College of Engineering University of Tehran Iran. He earned B.S. in industrial engineering from Khajeh Nasir Toosi university of technology, Masters in industrial engineering from Tehran University, Iran. He has published several journal and conference papers in various fields. His research interests include safety, optimization, scheduling, simulation, healthcare systems, and data mining.